Pay Depends On Type Of Employe Listing

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of three articles on new minimum wages for restaurant employees which go into effect in May.)

By Don Allen
A TRAINED attorney could probably find a few loopholes in the Department of Labor and Industry's new minimum wage order which goes into effect May 12, but to the average layman it seems pretty holeproof. In defining its terms, the department sometimes appears verbose, but the definitions are clear as are the regulations for which they were drawn.

A service employee, says the department, is one who "directly serves patrons or guests and who regularly receives gratuities (tips) in an amount at least equal to the difference between the minimum wage at the service employee rate and the minimum wage at the non-

Mack To Tell FCC Side Of Story

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (P)—Federal Communications Commissioner Richard A. Mack, accused of accepting money in a TV case, will get a chance to tell his side of the story to House investigators next week.

Chairman Harris (D-Ark) of the House subcommittee on Legislative Oversight said Mack will be heard on Wednesday or Thursday. First, Harris said, the investigators intend to question four Florida friends and acquaintances of Mack about the alleged payoff. They have been asked to appear on Tuesday.

Mack issued a statement today asserting the charges made against him by Bernard Schwartz, ousted chief counsel of the subcommittee, are "reckless" and "without foundation." Schwartz testified at an open hearing yesterday. Mack demanded an early opportunity to answer him.

It is designed to prevent an employer from shifting waitresses or waiters from their primary function to another job either for the purpose of limiting their income or to make one person do the work of two.

And while we're speaking of definitions, this is probably as good a spot as any to insert the definition of restaurant occupations as defined by the department:

"Restaurant occupation means any activity connected with or incidental to the preparation of or offering of food or beverage for human consumption either on the employer's premises or elsewhere by such services as, but not limited to, catering, banquet, box lunch, or curb service, whether such service or services are operated as the principal business of the employer or as a unit of another business and whether they are offered to the public, to employees, to members or guests of members, or to paying guests, but does not include domestic service in the home of the employer or services in a religious community or charitable institution."

Pretty comprehensive, isn't it?

It covers resorts, food counters or fountains in drug stores or other stores and even clubs and lodges, privately operated or otherwise.

Information

Harris said also the questioning would include some inquiries about certain information, files of which the committee has not yet located. Harris added two documents were missing. Asked if the missing papers were two White House letters, Harris said "could be."

Harris said the committee was going to let Schwartz tell all he knows.

He also reported that the committee had approved unanimously the idea that it give "whole-hearted cooperation" to the FBI in its investigation of the Mack case.

Harris said he was asked last night to permit the FBI to see the files of the committee and he did so last night. He said the FBI took certain documents with them but returned the documents this morning.

On the subject of lodging, the department says that if it is furnished to an employee at the request of the employee it may be calculated as part of the minimum wage but "shall not be valued at more than $5 for each week in computing the applicable minimum wage." Units of time less than one week may not be counted, under the order.

Lodging, in the words of the department, means "living accommodations which are adequate, decent and sanitary according to usual and customary standards."

Employees who receive meals at work have an hourly rate of about 30 cents lower than those who do not eat on the job.

And the department, some member of which has obviously been around, covers the situation in these words:

"With meals means that an employee receives an adequate quantity and reasonable variety of wholesome foods, provided by the employer without charge at the usual meal times or as nearly as possible thereto."

Search Ranges For Taft

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (P)—13-state police lookout was started today for William Howard Taft, 85-year-old Georgetown University student who has been missing from his rooming house here for more than a week.

Taft is the son of Howard Taft of Pleasantville, Pa. His mother said he was a very distant relative of William Howard Taft, the nation's 27th president.

The commission told the cities of Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and New York it has no jurisdiction in the matter, saying regulation of passenger train schedules is traditionally left to state utility commissions.

Willow Grove Under Study

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (P)—The Navy said today it is studying a proposal that its Willow Grove, Pa., Air Station, be closed in favor of keeping open a similar facility at Atlantic City, N. J.

A Navy spokesman said an announcement has been made that the Atlantic City station will be closed this summer. The move is opposed by what he

Navy In Sub Missile Pacts

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (P)—The Navy started its ballistic missile submarine program rolling today with announcement that construction of two Polaris boats will begin in Connecticut and a third in California.

The assignment to build two of the giant-size submersibles able to fire 1,500-mile intermediate-range ballistic missiles while beneath the sea, went to the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp. at Groton, Conn., the firm which built the Nautilus, forerunner of nuclear-powered submarines like the Polaris boats.

The Mare Island naval shipyard located near Vallejo, Calif., will build the other.

The first sub probably will cost between 105 and 110 million dollars. Techniques developed are expected to lower the price tag to 90 million dollars or less for the other craft.

The Polaris submarine will be the largest submersible known—unless the huge, new Soviet fleet includes a type unheard of here.

Surfaced, it will displace 5,600 tons, compared with about 3,000 tons for the Nautilus.

Within the huge hull will be 16 vertical tubes in which the IRBM Polaris weapons will be mounted and from which they will be fired.

With the 1,500-mile range, this means that a Polaris submarine can lob 16 rockets into the heartland of an enemy while concealed under the ocean surface. Each

Opinion Divided On Governor

HUNTINGDON, Feb. 14 (P)—Thirty Republican leaders from 11 central Pennsylvania counties expressed an overwhelming sentiment today for U. S. Rep. James E. Van Zandt for the GOP senatorial nomination.

But opinion was divided on who should receive organization support for governor. It was between William S. Livengood Jr., former secretary of internal affairs, and Arthur T. McGonigle, Reading pretzel manufacturer.

The Van Zandt support wasn't entirely unexpected, since he comes from neighboring Blair County. His principal opponent, U. S. Rep. Hugh Scott, a Philadelphia.

The give-and-take discussion behind closed doors on possible statewide candidates took place at the third in a series of regional meetings presided over by George L. Bloom, Republican state chairman.

Allentown Bloom, who appeared at Philadelphia and Franklin earlier in the week, goes to Pittsburgh tomorrow, Williamsport next Monday and Allentown the following Tuesday.

"These county leaders were in agreement that a primary fight must be avoided," he told a newsman. "No one seemed so firm in his support of any one candidate that he was willing to risk such a fight."

Counties represented were Bedford, Blair, Fulton, Franklin, Perry, Adams, York, Cumberland, Juniata, Mifflin and Huntingdon.

Several participants at the session who declined to be identified by name, said a feeling was expressed by some that Livengood might carry their counties against McGonigle in the primary election, but questioned his ability to win against the Democrats in November.

The pro-Livengood group was reported to have replied that McGonigle is a comparative unknown politically and argued further that Livengood has considerable experience in the Pennsylvania political scene.

As the Philadelphia and Franklin sessions, the name of Harold E. Stassen as a possible GOP gubernatorial candidate was greeted with considerable coolness.

Bloom, reportedly a McGonigle backer, declined to discuss and personalities when interviewed after the meeting. The only exception was to voice what he said as the group's unanimous opposition to Stassen.

Industrial Production On Decline

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (P)—The Federal Reserve Board reported today that industrial production, continuing a five-month decline, dropped in January to the lowest level in three years.

Slowdowns in the automotive industry and in the output of other durable goods contributed most to the decline, the board said.

Its industrial production index fell off three points last month to 133 per cent of the 1947-49 average. This was the lowest since February 1955.

Mineral Output

At 133, the index was 9 per cent below January 1957.

It stood at 145 last August but dropped one point in September and has been declining ever since.

The board said steel mill operations, sharply curtailed in December, fell off more in January. The aircraft industry's output however, held steady.

Mineral output remained unchanged, but activity in the textile and petroleum industries was curtailed. A decline in the production of nondurable goods continued in January.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) and Rep. Cooley (D-N.C.) called on President Eisenhower today to pay more attention to agriculture on his anti-recession program.

Tickets Placed On Sale For Walter Testimonial

TICKETS for the testimonial dinner honoring Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa) on the completion of 25 years of service in Congress were placed on sale in Monroe County yesterday.

The tickets may be obtained at The Daily Record office and the Penn-Stroud Hotel in Stroudsburg and from Van D. Yetter in Marshalls Creek.

The dinner will be held March 3 at the Hotel Easton in Easton. A nationally known speaker will address the gathering.

Non-Partisan Basis

The testimonial is being sponsored on a non-partisan basis by Sherman Adams, chief assistant to the President, to appear. Harris said if Adams wants to come, "he certainly will be given the privilege." Mack is an Eisenhower appointee.

On another matter, Harris said the committee had spent $79,000 for its 25th anniversary. The committee had spent $79,000 for its 25th anniversary.

Harris said he intended to have public hearings next week.

Rep. Walter's 25 years of service make him the dean of the entire Pennsylvania delegation in Congress. He is chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee and a member of the Judiciary Committee and Joint Committee on Immigration and Nationality Policy.

Jordan, Iraq Link Governments

AMMAN, Jordan, Feb. 14 (P)—Kings Faisal of Iraq and Hussein of Jordan linked their governments today in a federal union.

Their spokesmen hailed this swift response to the recently proclaimed Egyptian-Syrian union as a step toward total Arab unity, but the immediate effect was to spotlight the rivalry between two Arab camps.

The merger—the spokesmen called it an "Arab federation"—left the future of Iraq's participation in the American-supported Baghdad Pact in doubt. It is the only Arab nation in the alliance, a target of violent attack by Arab nationalists ever since it was formed in 1955.

A State Department spokesman emphasized to newsmen today that the United States has not offered formally to mediate or even to use its "good offices" in helping France and Tunisia patch up their quarrel. Mediation would be possible, said press officer Lincoln White, only if both sides formally requested such assistance.

"And we have had no such request from either party," he said.

White reaffirmed American readiness to help out informally via backstage diplomatic talks, but said this was as much as the government could do under present conditions.

Tremendous Meaning

The Baghdad-Amman federation joins the two Hashemite kingdoms' armies, foreign policies, and economic and financial affairs, but each of the 22-year-old second cousins retains its throne and each state retains its sovereignty. In this the federation differed from the Egyptian-Syrian union, in which President Nasser of Egypt will rule both countries at Thomasville, Ga.

A State Department spokesman emphasized to newsmen today that the United States today cautiously endorsed the unification of Jordan and Iraq, declaring in general terms that it welcomes "any moves toward closer association between Arab peoples."

Experts in the State Department and also some non-Arab diplomats in Washington privately said they thought the union could be a favorable event in the turbulent Middle East.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 14 (P)—Airman Donald G. Farrell fought off five days of fatigue and loneliness this Valentine's Day as he went into the final 48 hours of a mythical trip to the moon and back.

Sunday School Lesson

Jesus Preached Gospel In All Of Galilee

By Newman Campbell

PREACHING is the topic of today's lesson. It is very long, so we must confine ourselves to what we consider the most important parts of the gospel references assigned us.

Jesus had spent an exhausting night healing those brought to Him who were ill or possessed of evil spirits.

"And when it was day, he departed and went into a desert place" to meditate, something we all should take time to do, no matter how busy we are with worldly affairs. Let us take time to be alone with our God, to refresh ourselves with His presence.

The people, however, followed Jesus and stayed with Him "that He should not depart from them."

But He told them, "I must preach the kingdom of God to other cities also; for therefore am I sent." He was the Great Preacher of all time, and multitudes followed to hear Him.

As He stood by a lake, the people "pressed upon Him to hear the word of God." Jesus saw two ships standing in the lake, but they were empty, as the fishermen were washing their nets. One of the ships was Simon's and the Lord asked Simon to push the ship a short distance from the shore. When that was done, He "taught the people out of the ship." Although He had preached in many synagogues, Jesus needed no church to bring His message to the people.

It is suggested by Dr. William M. Smith that the children he asked what part of the whom they have not believed? service they enjoy most. It is a wise thing to have the young people of the middle and upper grades of the Sunday school attend the service in the chapel now and then, so they may hear their preacher give his sermon. They might discuss it later.

Some of the other class pupils might "hear the call" to the ministry and later study for it. Ministers of the gospel of Christ are needed in our churches today. The preaching of the gospel from the Bible might be one of the subjects emphasized to these young people by the teachers.

How "beautiful" indeed are those who can bring us the gospel of peace through understanding and goodwill, which we can practice in our daily lives. Thus we can help to bring, through faith in Christ Jesus and His Father, God, a better world out of this one of fear and despair. We sadly need such messages from our modern ministers of the gospel.

As Paul writes to the church at Ephesus: "I was made a minister, according to the gift of the grace of God unto me by the effectual working of His power.

Unto me, who am less than the least of the saints, is this grace given, that I should preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ; and to make all men see what is the fellowship of the mystery, which from the beginning of the world hath been hid in God, who created all things by Jesus Christ."

WOULD A FENCE HELP?

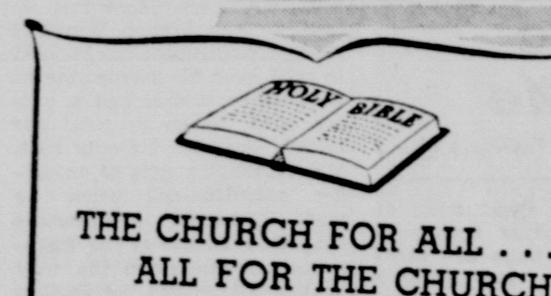

If we could build a fence around the world, what would it mean?

Would we live happily with one another? Would we respect our limitations and still feel free within our confines? Would we stop wars, and know eternal peace?

Probably not. Because, while you can fence in physical objects, the minds, the hearts, and the souls of man cannot be harnessed. Nor could we be forced to live in peace. Blessed peace can come only to us through practicing the love, the faith, the tolerance and the understanding that God, through His Church on earth, tries again and again to teach us.

With that in mind, remember World Day of Prayer this year. Determine not to build a fence around yourself, or around anyone else—but to pledge, instead, to enlarge your horizons and the horizons of the entire world through the common voice of prayer.

And what better place in which to make such a pledge than the Church itself?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Concern Over Issues

There is some dispute these days over just how deeply Americans are concerned about some of the graver issues of the time.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn says he thinks both the federal administration and Congress are underestimating the people. He believes they are ready and willing to make any necessary sacrifices to safeguard their security and promote their well-being.

Many of his associates in Washington differ with him. They insist there is no substantial evidence that people in this country are sufficiently stirred either over Russia's satellites or educational system, or transportation bottlenecks.

At first politicians felt the Soviet satellite launchings last October had really built a fire of popular alarm in every hamlet and city. Now they aren't so sure.

Public reaction to our own successful space vehicle has been described as tame. Obviously, people's minds appear to be elsewhere.

If they really do care about the great national problems confronting them, they haven't revealed that fact to the country's policy-makers.

There is a feeling that most persons are pre-occupied with their own pocket-book problems. A recession catches some of them in a hurry. They're too busy, then, meeting installments to give much thought to defense, education, housing, crime or highway fatalities.

If this be true, then both ends of Pennsylvania Ave. in Washington may spend some time waiting before they get any strong signals from the people on the main streets of America about national and international matters which seem to touch but lightly their daily and local affairs.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Scandalous Giveaway System

It will be amazing if an honest investigation fails to prove political attempts to influence decisions of some of the federal agencies. The system under which they operate makes "influence" practically inevitable.

Congress will squirm but it hardly can avoid airing what's been going on. It will squirm because Congress created the giveaway system under which some of these commissions operate and because congressmen of both parties have a vested interest in perpetuating the system.

Two of these commissions hand out TV channels and airplane routes. Many of these are worth millions the moment they are awarded.

The law requires, in endless detail, meticulous study of the applicants' qualifications, their moral character, financial soundness, ability to render service and so on.

Months and years are devoted to hearings running into millions of words. Then the examiners make recommendations to the commissioners who sometimes follow them and sometimes don't.

In the current disorderly argument before the House investigating subcommittee, influence from the White House is suggested.

Yet congressmen themselves make no bones about turning on the heat to get plane routes or air frequencies for their friends. Many a plane route, for instance, has been selected to gain the influence of a couple more senators.

Under this system the deciding factor in close cases is practically bound to be whim, or friendship or political pressure.

And the rights thus whimsically awarded may be worth one million, 10 million or 50 million dollars to the fortunate recipients who can turn around and sell them for cash as they have done in some instances.

No one in Government should have the right to make these royal gifts even if the giving could be placed on a fair and impartial basis, which it can't. Congressmen looking for scandal have got it. The whole system is scandalous.

Authority of these commissions should be limited to studies determining whether applicants are able, financially and otherwise, to render the offered services.

Then the licenses should go to the highest bidder with the receipts deposited in the Federal treasury for the benefit of all the taxpayers. They would build many a science lab and maybe a few rockets.—Pittsburgh Press

George Sokolsky Says...

Whose Antennae?

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt has been publishing an interesting series of articles about herself in "The Saturday Evening Post." They are, in many ways, a postscript to her autobiography.

The particular article to which I refer contains some criticism of John Foster Dulles, our Secretary of State, which requires examination.

The matter comes up in relationship to Nehru of India, for whom Mrs. Roosevelt has considerable admiration. She says:

"... I cannot help but feel that Mr. Dulles fails to understand the feelings of many of the peoples with whom we must deal — that he lacks antennae with which to reach out and sense the attitudes of others at times when such attitudes may be of utmost importance in our struggle against Communism."

The question, of course, is whether the Secretary of State is a good-will ambassador or a finely-schooled strategist in international relations prepared by knowledge and experience to negotiate with other countries in the interests of the United States.

That phrase, "in the interests of the United States," may not concern Mrs. Roosevelt too much because she is devoting the latter years of her life to the interest of the United Nations and there could be a conflict of interest.

General Marshall's activities were such that the Chinese Communists were able to gain, after a long time, a strategic position in Manchuria which resulted first in the conquest of China by Soviet Russia, one of the most serious defeats this country encountered in its history, and secondly, the Soviet direction of the Korean War which has proved so disastrous to us.

Mrs. Roosevelt is critical of Madame Chiang Kai-shek. She says:

"... I think that intellectually she understands what democracy means, but despite the fact that she went to college in this country she does not know how to live democracy."

The reason Mrs. Roosevelt desires Secretary of State Dulles to have antennae which reach out and sense the attitudes of others, is that the aforesaid others "may be of utmost importance in our struggle against Communism."

But these others, even after receiving such gracious aid at the hands of the Government of the United States, in most instances have been neutral between the United States and Soviet Russia. Nehru, for instance, is neutral.

What particular value is it to have a Secretary of State who gives up the taxpayers' earnings until it hurts and all we get for it is the kind of neutrality which Nehru produced in India and Sukarno produced in Indonesia?

Another generalization in this article that requires correction is the following:

"I remember when President Truman sent Gen. George C. Marshall to China during the critical days of the civil war, to attempt to persuade Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to inaugurate governmental reforms in an effort to unite all factions..."

That was not General Marshall's task. General Marshall's task was to intervene in the civil war which was occurring in China between the government which was our ally and the Chinese Communists who were serving Soviet Russia.

General Marshall's activities were such that the Chinese Communists were able to gain, after a long time, a strategic position in Manchuria which resulted first in the conquest of China by Soviet Russia, one of the most serious defeats this country encountered in its history, and secondly, the Soviet direction of the Korean War which has proved so disastrous to us.

Mrs. Roosevelt is critical of Madame Chiang Kai-shek. She says:

"... I think that intellectually she understands what democracy means, but despite the fact that she went to college in this country she does not know how to live democracy."

"Probably her reaction to your endless talk about horses," guessed the doctor.

"Bring her over this afternoon and I'll examine her." "Okay," agreed the gent. "I'll gallop her over right after lunch."

"... I think that intellectually she understands what democracy means, but despite

A gent who spent most of his business hours trying to pick winning nags at race-tracks all over the country called his doctor in some alarm, "It's my wife," he quavered. "She seems to think she's a racehorse. She's snorting and whinnying and chewing up all the grass on our front lawn."

"Probably her reaction to your endless talk about horses," guessed the doctor.

"Bring her over this afternoon and I'll examine her." "Okay," agreed the gent. "I'll gallop her over right after lunch."

"... I think that intellectually she understands what democracy means, but despite the fact that she went to college in this country she does not know how to live democracy."

A noted jockey came to ride at a brand new track out west, but proved a sad disappointment to his followers. In fact, after finishing out of the money in a dozen consecutive races, he was called up before the governing board.

"We're wondering what you are up to," frowned the chairman.

"Are you using an electric battery on any of the horses you've been riding?"

"Certainly not," maintained the jockey angrily. "I never used a battery in my life!"

"Well," said the head of the track, "I advise you to get one fast. All the other jockeys here are using them."

"You're the cream in my coffee!"

Playwriting is more of a war than an artistic endeavor. The dramatist struggles to convince producers, battles with performers, challenges audiences and then faces the critics' firing squad. . . . Al Morgan, who scripted the "Oh, Captain!" musical, has described the ordeal of a Philadelphia tryout: "I earned my purple heart in Philadelphia in a series of running skirmishes with actors who suddenly turn into playwrights onstage and sabotage a carefully written scene with their self-confessed genius for improvisation."

Yet, out of the insect inquiry—involving an undesired wood-borer—the studies have resulted in a program of defending underwater pilings and other structures against the insects. A few thousand dollars in research is saving the taxpayers millions.

On the survey of what the Navy hopes to work out as a result a device to provide unlimited oxygen supplies

Developing Balance

The reason plants "breathe"

carbon dioxide and "exhale" oxygen. Humans breathe oxygen and exhale carbon dioxide. A balance can be developed only if the plants can handle the same volume of air as do the people involved. A "gas studies now underway may deimportant discoveries for the

Inside Washington

Civilian Space Control

Washington — It is a certainty that control of America's outer space programs will be taken out of the hands of the military and placed in a civilian agency.

President Eisenhower already has ordered a study aimed at switching the program, and Congress is going to insist that civilian control be exercised over space developments.

Eventually, or as soon as Congress and the administration can make arrangements, the space program will be put under either a new civilian agency or the Atomic Energy commission.

There is a strong precedent for the action. The same thing happened to the atomic bomb project which was removed from the Army's Manhattan Project to the newly-created ABC.

Of course, the Pentagon will continue to develop its missiles and there will be no interference with the military aspects.

But the new system of control will operate much as the AEC does now in supervising atomic energy policies.

Mr. Sam's Record — House Speaker Sam Rayburn's long service in Congress was pointed up dramatically the other day by Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland.

Knowland, who is relinquishing his key Senate seat next year and hopes to be governor of California, said that when his own father was in the House from 1903 to 1915, "Mr. Sam was there at that time." He said the beloved Rayburn has "outlived two generations of Knowlands." This was in reference to the fact that the senator is quitting Congress at the end of this year.

Knowland continued: "I suppose if some day one of my daughters, granddaughters or grandsons should be elected to Congress, Mr. Sam will be there to greet them."

Knowland, of course, is Republican, while Rayburn is sometimes also known on Capitol Hill as "Mr. Democrat."

There is a strong precedent for the action. The same thing happened to the atomic bomb project which was removed from the Army's Manhattan Project to the newly-created ABC.

Transtation: In the case of Winchell, once Walter started something I immediately copied it. I took Walter's column format after I publicly announced that I would never resort to such gossip—blah, blah, blah—and I even tried to copy his radio newscasts but I flopped at it. And what I have never made public before—in fact I have denied it—is that it was Walter Winchell who recommended me in 1931 to take over his microphone at CBS when Walter had a better offer to go to NBC for Lucky Strikes. I finally took Mr. Winchell's style of emceeing benefits—and when he made personal appearances with Ben Bernie at the Paramount, I just loved the way Walter introduced the various celebrities sitting out front. So I put it on television and made a lot of money.

And that's why the Feb. 10th Time magazine called me: "Winchell's favorite 'ingrate'."

Riley Pleads Guilty To False Entries In Books Of Area Bank

Judge Murphy Postpones Sentencing

A BUSHKILL man yesterday told newsmen he falsified Monroe County National Bank books by $43,800 "because of the cost of living."

Roy W. Riley, 59, former assistant cashier at the local bank, pleaded guilty to a charge of false entry in bank records before Judge John W. Murphy in Federal Court in Scranton. The judge deferred sentence.

Riley had been an employee of the East Stroudsburg bank for 18 years. He told reporters he started on a salary of $2,400 and was getting $4,400 at the time of his recent arrest.

During most of the time he worked at the bank, he said, he was getting a salary of "about $3,000 a year."

Restaurant

In conversation with newsmen, Riley said that he went into the restaurant business "but it didn't work out." He and his wife at one time operated the Log Cabin Inn on Route 209.

He said that he used to "work at the bank and then go over to the restaurant and help my wife in the kitchen." When his wife became ill, Riley said, "some time ago" the couple was forced to give up the restaurant.

Riley said he was born in Atlantic City, N.J. and had worked in a bank there about 12 years before coming to this area.

Bortlik Enters Plea Of Not Guilty

STEPHEN Bortlik of 188 Smith St., East Stroudsburg, entered a "not guilty" plea to a charge that he failed to report for civilian hospital duty as ordered by his draft board yesterday in Federal Court, Scranton. He is a member of Jehovah's Witnesses sect.

Bortlik then proceeded to waive his right to a trial by jury and told the judge he would act as his own legal counsel in the trial before Judge John Murphy when it is held.

The East Stroudsburg man, who will be 26 next Wednesday, was classified "I-O" by the Monroe County Selective Service Board last July 8. He was then ordered, as a non-combatant, to report for civilian duty at Norristown, Pa.

Federal Court

He refused to do so. He was charged with failure to comply with a draft board order last week. Yesterday he was arraigned on the charge in Federal Court.

After Bortlik had entered his plea, Judge Murphy asked: "Do you have a lawyer?" Bortlik said: "No." The judge asked: "Do you want me to get one for you?"

Bortlik thought about this for a moment, then replied: "No. A lawyer probably could handle this more smoothly, but it wouldn't have the conviction I could give it." The judge agreed to let him act as his own attorney.

Then Judge Murphy asked: "Do you wish to present your case for trial before a jury or before a judge alone?" Bortlik signed a legal waiver asking for trial before the judge.

Reporters at the trial asked Bortlik why he had refused to take the job with the hospital. They said Bortlik maintained it would conflict with his "pastoral duties" as an assistant pastor of the Jehovah's Witnesses in the East Stroudsburg area.

Bortlik said he does not receive any pay for those duties.

Court Rules In Favor Of Movie

THE PENNSYLVANIA Supreme Court has ordered Philadelphia's district attorney—and other authorities—to stop interfering with the showing of the French film "And God Created Woman."

In a 5-1 opinion signed by Chief Justice Charles Alvin Jones, the court also ordered Philadelphia District Attorney Victor Blanc to return one of two copies of the film which Blanc seized this week. Blanc also arrested the managers of the two theaters in Philadelphia on grounds that they had allegedly violated the State's obscenity law.

In Stroudsburg earlier this week, Monroe County District Attorney Detlef A. Hansen asked a 15-member committee to view the film with him to decide whether there was anything actionable under the State's obscenity law.

The committee voted unanimously after seeing the film that it was not obscene.

Two members said, however, that it was definitely not the kind of movie which they felt should be shown in the area, the film.

Yesterday in Philadelphia, President Judge Eugene V. Alessandroni, of Common Pleas Court number five, before whom both cases are pending, said to reporters that he wants a hearing on the matter held as early next week as possible.

Alessandroni also said that he may ask an "advisory jury" to give an opinion on whether the film is, as Blanc says, "obscene."

Three Escape Injury In Explosion

FOR THE FIRST time in its history, Tunkhannock Township now has a volunteer firemen's organization.

A charter was granted yesterday to the Tunkhannock Township Volunteer Fire Co., and to the Tunkhannock Township Volunteer Firemen's Relief Assn.

Mrs. William Speer, 79, was asleep in a second-floor bedroom when the blast occurred about 2 a. m. Her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Endy, were sleeping in a bedroom on the third floor.

The explosion blew out a section extending from the first floor to the second in the center of the building a few feet to the rear of Mrs. Speer's room.

Not Serious

Mrs. Speer was not hurt, but she was placed under a doctor's care for shock. She is the mother of George (Lefty) Speer, of 1640 Wallace St., Stroudsburg. Advised of the explosion, the local man went to Allentown early yesterday and returned later in the day. He said his mother's condition was not serious.

Speer reported that an investigation indicated the oil-burner in the basement was not the cause of the blast. A further check is being made to determine the exact source of the furnaces that led to the explosion.

The Speer home, one of a number in a row of houses, is located at Allen and Howard Sts. in Allentown.

Additional Survivors

She is also survived by her father, Jacob Smith, East Stroudsburg; a brother, Richard Smith, East Stroudsburg; three sisters, Janet Smith, Mrs. Marie Stitzer and Mrs. Jean Ludwig, all of East Stroudsburg.

Funeral services will be announced later by the Lanterman Funeral Home.

Amateur Program

AN AMATEUR program was presented Wednesday night at the Arlington Heights Chapel.

Taking part were Glenn Reish, steel guitar solo, accompanied at piano by his mother, Mrs. Orien Reish, who also joined Glenn and Gary Reish in a vocal number; Charles Houck and Gary Van Gorden, duet; junior boys, song; Diane and Barbara Bond, duet; Marie Bond, solo; Melodie and Darlene Snyder, duet; Margaret Snyder, guitar, number.

Instructions

During his basic training he will be taught to fire the M-1 rifle. Also included in his training will be instruction in such subjects as military courtesy, first aid and personal hygiene.

Upon completion of his basic training he will receive further advanced infantry training or will be assigned to an Army school. Fort Jackson offers schooling in several specialties associated with an Army division.

Four STC Teams At Home Today

FOUR EAST STROUDSBURG Teachers varsity athletic teams face competition at home today. The Warrior five meets Kutztown Teachers at 8:30 p.m.; STC's matmen face Brooklyn Poly Tech at 4 p.m.; the "Hill" swimming squad takes on Poly's tankers at 2 p.m.; and the Warriorettes basketballers host Misercordia's lassies at 2:30 p.m.

ESSTC's court varsity will be seeking its seventh win in 12 games and its second win of the year over Kutztown. The tilt, a Pennsylvania Teachers Conference fray, will be preceded by a junior varsity game between the Warrior underlings and Newton A. C. starting at 7 p.m.

George Ockershausen's wrestlers, 2-5 on the season, will be meeting a Brooklyn Poly team which has won four out of six thus far.

Seek 1st Win

East Stroudsburg's swimmers will be looking for its first win against Poly's natators in two previous starts. ESSTC lost to powerful Cortland and equally better LaSalle.

Miss Ann Venezia's undefeated Warriors hope to make Misericordia their fourth straight victim. In an earlier meeting between the two sextettes, ESSTC scored an easy triumph.

Both setbacks came at the hands of West Chester on the Golden Rams court.

The Marauders need to down West Chester at home this season to assure themselves at least a tie for the PTBC championship. If the Rams win, though, West Chester will have its first league crown.

TEARS AND LAUGHTER—are embodied in these pictures of Mrs. Anna Shaw, teacher in local schools for 57 years, who will be 90 years old today. The cards she holds are tributes from the past from pupils who still cherish her part in their life, the laughter represents her hope for the future.

Mrs. Anna Shaw, Teacher, Still Learning As She Celebrates 90th Birthday

Years, when they add up to 90, can age and cripple the human body, but the human mind can retain the vigor, sparkle and bounce of youth. Living proof of that is Mrs. Anna Shaw of 215 Washington St., East Stroudsburg who was born 90 years ago today.

A teacher for 57 years in Monroe County Schools, Mrs. Shaw has never stopped learning, and when she recalls the past it is for the purpose of illuminating the present. Her conversation is as current as today's newspaper.

The current series of articles on education, the problems of education in an atomic age, the matter of juvenile delinquency in the New York schools, even the present controversy over a moving picture now playing in the community were not only clear in her mind, but she had opinions on what could be done about them.

Such alertness of mind is a matter for awe, but should not be a matter of surprise when it is embodied in a woman who took her last degree from the college when she was 58.

"I was already old and gray," she said, "when I'd go scouting through the alley and up the hill to the college, for a seven o'clock class. A man stopped me one day and remarked 'aren't you a little old to be going to school?'"

"I made him repeat the question and by then I was ready for him: 'There are a lot of old people in this town who ought to be going to school,' I told him."

Mrs. Shaw was born Anna Spragle on February 15, 1868 in Bartonsville. She was the daughter of Samuel Spragle, wheelwright and carpenter, and of Lydia Hartman Spragle, who died when she was 13 days old.

"We were raised right," she said. "I can see my father yet, holding up two fingers. There are two ways of doing things, he'd say, 'a right way and a wrong way, and no in between!'"

The "right way" for Anna Spragle endowed with a hunger for knowledge and a dramatic flair for imparting that knowledge to others, was in teaching. She attended the country school when they still had to buy their own books. She earned her book money by picking blackberries and selling them for 10 cents a quart.

Later she attended Fairview Academy and in 1887 taught for the first time in the school in Scranton. That was the winter of the big blizzard, she recalls very well.

In 1891 she taught in the East Stroudsburg High School when it was held in the old Methodist Church. They had seven rooms, each heated by a pot-bellied stove, she recalled. Blackboards, at that time, were really boards painted black, she said.

She has a picture of herself with that first class and not long ago one of the pupils stopped to see her.

"He teased me because I didn't recognize him," she chuckled.

Mr. Unger was principal of the school at that time, and it was he who really organized the high school, she said. She has a picture of the high school staff in front of the "new" high school when it opened the following year, and recalls the year after that they graduated their first student, Charles Teeter, who died recently. Unger is in that picture along with Dr. Morgan, who died last week.

"I guess I'm the last one left," she mused. "And while I've always shunned publicity, it seems a shame that the teachers and students of today should not know it used to be the progress and growth of the high school, and the firm foundation on which it was built."

She had a bit of poetry ready on her tongue to illustrate every point, and from the way she said the lines her second love was as evident as her love for teaching.

"I've always loved dramatics," she said, and recalled her delight when a traveling troupe of players presented Shakespeare in the old Academy of Music.

"They gave 'The Merchant of Venice' and 'Henry VIII,'" she remembers. "And I was so hungry to hear them that it actually hurt."

The Academy of Music was a big thing for the young town. An old match factory, where the Grand Theater now stands, was converted into this Academy of Music, and that's where they had the old bandstand, too, she recalls.

"It's a real theater now, but the seeds of it were sown by those pioneers in the past," she said.

Another big step in the cultural life of the town was the opening of the Normal School.

"That was wonderful for us," she said, "so many of us couldn't afford to go to Kutztown, but we could afford to take courses here."

She remembers skating on the pond where the college now stands and how the creek used to run down from that hill and by the coal yards and pass the house where she now lives. She remembers when most of the houses on Washington Street were built, too.

Proceeds From Y Card Party For Kitchen, Youth

Proceeds from the card party and fashion show, sponsored by the YMCA Aux, to be held next Tuesday at 8 in the YMCA, will be used to replenish and add to kitchen equipment and to increase the youth program outlined for the year.

The Miss Pocono Mountains pageant sponsored by the auxiliary raised $632, which was used to pay off a $200 pledge to the building fund, and to devote $350 to equipping and staffing a craft room for young people. The remaining money will be added to the money raised at the card party this year.

With the expanded program presented by the YMCA more children and teenagers as well as adults are using the facilities of the Y including the gymnasium and swimming pool as well as meeting rooms for organizations, sewing groups, and other recreational facilities.

Tickets for the card party may be obtained from Mrs. Ted Price, Tel. 522. Mrs. Walter McClelland and Mrs. Holt Wyckoff are chairmen of table arrangements.

J. E. Serfass Honored In Florida

Miami, Fla.—J. E. Serfass, of Saylorsburg, was the guest of honor at a surprise birthday dinner given by his wife. She really surprised him, too, which is quite difficult to do in a trailer, where there aren't many places to hide party preparations or even the big birthday cake she had made for him.

He received many gifts, and many cards from his home town. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Krome, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Weiss, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Summers, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bradley and A. Oistion.

Mr. Serfass, who has been very ill, is slowly recuperating. They are spending the winter at Bell Haven Trailer Park, 73rd St. and 32nd Ave., Miami, Fla.

"Mrs. Shaw did not just teach the three R's; she taught character," he said.

Mrs. Shaw herself said, "Teachers should never despair because children coming to you are different than you are. You can watch and study them and learn how to guide them and teach with eyes can see through a ladder."

"You can drive cattle, but you can't drive people. When they do the first wrong thing, you stop them if you can, and then try to lead them away from temptation."

When she felt that children needed more music, she'd invite them to her home, put an extra leaf in the kitchen table, and they'd all sit around and sing.

The opinions of the parents are desired, and should be expressed at this meeting. These opinions should help the board in making their decisions. Selden Ponder, president of the school board will be present, to explain the plan, and answer questions concerning it.

Meeting Postponed

The meeting of the Frank B. Michaels Sunday School class of Grace Lutheran Church, scheduled for Monday night, has been postponed until the weather and driving conditions are better.

derstand and to live in this atomic age. They must be taught how to overcome Communism.

"I am not afraid that Communism is going to rule the world; that it is God's work, but we must learn to rule ourselves."

But to return to her love for dramatics, she remembers what a triumph she had when during 1918 as a teacher in Barrett, she directed a program to raise funds for the War effort when all the guests at Buck Hill came to praise.

She was not above using a little impromptu drama in teaching, either.

She recalled one incident when her sixth grade class was studying division of fractions.

"There was a time when a man with a hunger for learning could educate himself by reading, but today there isn't time. Our children must learn to understand."

"I stopped him and pointed out that he was doing it wrong. Now, Raymond," I told him. I explained that to you yesterday, and I explained it the day before. Don't you listen to what I say?"

"He said something about not understanding this 'inversion' business. I picked him up and stood him on his head and said, 'That, Raymond, is inversion.'

"I'll tell you, he never forgot after that. And neither did the other 40 students in the class."

"There are a lot of things her pupils will never forget about the moon was shining down all silvery with a great silver ring around it," she remembers. "That ring around the moon means snow, I told them, and instructed them to bring their shovels to school the next morning. Sure enough it snowed and I dismissed two boys to shovel till noon. They made 60 cents and I gave them the 40 cents and he got his song book."

"Teaching is something you can't learn from books," she observed. "You've got to see the problem, and then find some way out. And for finding a way out, there's nothing like being kind. Psychology is just common sense."

"Children are the most wonderful things in the world. Christ before sending his disciples out in the world, took a child and set him in the midst of them. I never had children of my own but in the children I taught I feel I have a monument more eternal than a mansion, that will not only outlast my lifetime and theirs but generations yet to come."
